ARBUCKLE INDICTED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

But As Murder Charge Is Still Pending, Comedian Must Still Remain In Jail

(By Associated Press)
San Francisco, Sept. 14.—While the grand jury last night indicted Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, a charge of murder is still pending in the justice's court, which District Attorney Brady said will make Arbuckle ineligible for bail. There will be no bail until the murder charge is withdrawn, said Brady.

San Francisco, Sept. 14.—With the grand jury which has been hearing evidence against him adjourned and the coroner's inquest extending into its second day without a verdict, "Fatty" Arbuckle, motion picture actor-comedian, charged with the murder of Miss Virginia Rappe, an actress, whose death occurred after a party in Arbuckle's rooms in a hotel, spent his third night in a cell.

The grand jury adjourned without returning an indictment, but another session will be held as soon as District Attorney Matthew Brady is ready to present further testimony, the foreman announced.

Added interest was given the case when the district attorney declared he would start an investigation to ascertain whether the witnesses who were present at the party last week have been tampered with. The official's statement followed the appearance of Miss Vey Provost, before the grand jury. According to Mr. Brady, her testimony there was entirely different from that she previously gave him.

Reports that another witness, Alice Blake, had disappeared, proved erroneous, when she appeared at the district attorney's office. Miss Blake explained, according to Mr. Brady, that she had gone from her home in Berkeley to a friend's home in Oakland in order to avoid publicity.

Among the witnesses before the grand jury, some of whom later testified at the second day's proceedings of the coroner's inquest, were Mrs. Bambina Maud Delmont, A. Semmacher, Miss Rappe's mother and Alice Blake, all of whom are said to have been present at the Arbuckle party, and Mrs. Jean Jameson, a nurse, who attended Miss Rappe before her death.

Mrs. Delmont, at the inquest, said she, Miss Rappe and Al Semmacher, Miss Rappe's manager, drove to San Francisco from Los Angeles, arriving Sunday night, September 4. While she and Miss Rappe were eating breakfast the next day, a telephone call was received that a Mr. Arbuckle wanted to see them all at the St. Francis Hotel. Miss Rappe went to Arbuckle's room alone and then telephoned for Mrs. Delmont and Semmacher to join her.

There, she testified, she met Arbuckle, Lowell Sherman, Ira C. Fortounis and Frederick Fischback. There were many bottles on the table in the room. Miss Rappe had three drinks of gin and orange juice. Mrs. Delmont had about ten drinks of whiskey.

The Rappe girl arose and went into the bathroom off Arbuckle's room. When she came out of the bathroom Arbuckle was in his room. He closed the door between it and the sitting room where the other members of the party were.

She told of her futile attempts to get the door open and rescue Miss Rappe, and of finally calling an officer of the hotel. Arbuckle opened the door as she was telephoning and came out attired in pajamas and wearing Miss Rappe's hat. The girl was moaning on the bed, nude to the waist and all her clothing torn and disordered. Mrs. Delmont told how she had assisted in putting Miss Rappe in a bath tub in an effort to relieve her intense pain, of her repeated declaration that Arbuckle had hurt her seriously, all of which details have already been published.

Mrs. Delmont made two admissions which were snappily eagerly by the lawyers for Arbuckle. The first was that she had taken several drinks, possibly eight or ten, during the afternoon and the second came when Coroner Leland, solicitous over her tired appearance, commented on it. "I feel alright," she assured him. "I had a little 'shot' today," naming a drug that is forbidden by national law. These answers went into the record and it is believed the defense will make use of them.

Another fact brought out by Mrs. Delmont's testimony was that Miss Rappe died without knowing what was the matter with her. Over and over again, as death was closing in on her, the girl kept repeating: "I'm terribly hurt; I'm dying; he did it to me."

Efforts to get her to say what had happened were without avail. "Oh, I don't know, I don't know," she moaned.

Arbuckle kept his eyes upon the witness throughout the testimony. Mrs. Delmont finished her testimony at noon. Arbuckle took more than usual interest when, toward the close of the session, Coroner Dr. T. B. W. Leland asked the witness:

"How do you happen to remember what happened if you had so many drinks of whiskey?"

"My memory is always good," she answered.

When the inquest was resumed in the afternoon, Ira G. Fortounis, a salesman, took the stand. He testified that he was present at the party but left before Arbuckle is supposed to have gone into a bedroom with Miss Rappe.

Mr. Semmacher testified that he attended the party, after trying in vain to induce Miss Rappe to return to Los Angeles. He was not present, he said, during the alleged attack, but came back later and saw Miss Rappe upon the bed, apparently very ill.

Semmacher also testified that he visited Miss Rappe the day following the party and she said to him:

"Roscoe hurt me."

He said he did not hear the screaming testified to by Mrs. Delmont and was surprised when he heard the full details of the party from Mrs. Delmont the next day.

Prohibition officers announced that they intended to question Arbuckle and the hotel management regarding the carrying of liquor into Arbuckle's rooms.

MODERN MINISTERS MERE "SALESMEN"

A Reason For Luke-Warm Religion, Says Dr. Thomas At Ecumenical Conference

(By Associated Press)
London, Sept. 14.—Modern ministers are trained as mere "salesmen" instead of Christian apostles and that is one reason why the people generally have a lukewarm attitude toward religion, declared the Rev. Dr. J. S. Ladd Thomas, of Chicago, in an address here today before the Ecumenical Methodist Conference. The speaker said he saw "a real peril" in the effort of denomination leaders to force the ministry into a narrow and mechanical scheme whose direct aim is to produce the largest immediate revenue.

"Poorly attended churches all over the land bear witness to the people's indifference toward institutional religion," said Dr. Thomas. "Full churches are the exception rather than the rule. It is the empty church which stares us in the face and more eloquently than words speaks of the attitude of that large group of people who have rejected institutional religion as something unnecessary in their lives."

"They are pleasure mad; they have a mania for materialistic indulgence, while their belief in the modern church as the representative of God and the Ambassador of Christ does not express itself. The real problem," the speaker indicated, "is how to vitalize the church so that she may authoritatively and convincingly persuade men of their divine inheritance and the mission of sacrificial service." Asserting that the "average artisan lacks confidence in the church as the champion of the square deal," he continued:

"This indifference has arisen from a misconception of God, a wrong teaching of God, a wrong teaching of the church and wrong teaching of the Christian life. In many of the critical hours of history the church has failed to impress the world with an authoritative message—which would bring light into the dark hours on the subject of war, the relations of capital and labor and other vital questions which have been baffling the minds of men."

"Prophets and priests," Dr. Thomas said, must "challenge the people with a gospel that will restore confidence in the church, trust in Christ and service to the world. The church must not forget her social message but she must also remember that Christianity is a religion of the individual."

MORROW TALKS TO FRANKLIN JURY

Governor Spends 30 Minutes Before Grand Jury Which Is Investigating Blair Pardon

(By Associated Press)
Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 14.—The Franklin county grand jury today began investigation of Governor Morrow's pardon of Frank Blair, noted criminal, from the state reformatory here several months ago. James Hendricks, a Louisville saloon keeper, who charged that Blair robbed him and who later signed a petition for Blair's pardon, was the first witness.

Gov. Morrow was called next and stayed in the grand jury room 30 minutes.

At noon Chesley H. Searcy, Louisville Republican National Committeeman from Kentucky, and a number of others were waiting to go before the jury.

Maurice Galvin, reputed leader before Morrow for Blair's pardon, was not subpoenaed. Judge William Burkamp, of Covington, who accompanied Galvin to Frankfort when summoned by Gov. Morrow to tell the circumstances preceding the pardon, is also here.

CORNELISON FARM WITHDRAWN FROM SALE

Mr. Albin Cornelison withdrew from sale his farm offered in three tracts Wednesday morning. Bids of $180 to $200 an acre were offered, but Mr. Cornelison said that he did not feel that he should accept them as he paid $701 an acre for the best part of it. There was a good crowd present at the sale and bidding was spirited and interesting. The 116 acres offered are located about three miles from Richmond on the Barnes Mill pike.

LINCOLN ADDS 200,000 POUNDS

Stanford, Ky., Sept. 14.—James N. Kehoe, Maysville banker, farmer, and tobacco grower, Monday told a large crowd of Lincoln county tobacco raisers in a meeting at the court house, that they had an opportunity by standing together to obtain 30 cents a pound for their tobacco, but that if they stuck to the old method of dumping their tobacco on the market, they might expect no better price than they obtained last year.

Two hundred thousand pounds of tobacco were pledged for the meeting, the total for Lincoln county now being 950,000.

The meeting was enlivened by a tilt between Mr. Kehoe and Col. I. M. Dunn, who opposes the new marketing plan. Colonel Dunn is a warehouseman, and when Mr. Kehoe made reference to certain practices alleged to be followed by buyers at some points in the state, Col. Dunn made haste to say that it wasn't in this section of the state, but in another, which he named.

The audience cheered. Mr. Kehoe's retort that neither Colonel Dunn nor himself could be sure of protecting his business from such methods if the old system of marketing prevailed.

GAME WARDENS ARE KEPT BUSY NOW

34 Convictions Secured During August For Violation of Game Laws

(By Associated Press)
Frankfort, Sept. 14.—Kentucky Fish and Game Commission wardens are making game law breaking expensive to hunters who hunt out of season, kill more than legal bags or take fish from the waters of the state illegally, according to reports to the office of the commission here. During August the wardens arrested 44 persons on various charges and confiscated a large quantity of contraband. Thirty-four convictions were secured.

Wardens L. C. Shaw and Will Helm, who have the entire state as their fields, made five arrests and got as many convictions during August but Shaw, assisted by E. T. Wade, another warden, during the first ten days of September more than equalled that record, reports indicated. At Scottsville alone since Sept. 1 Warden Shaw and Wade secured five convictions of men arrested for shooting quail and at Austin secured two convictions of men who gilled fish. The five convicted at Scottsville were fined $15 each and had to pay $5 each in costs and those at Austin were fined $15 each and costs of $5 each.

During August Shaw and Helm seized 33 nets and destroyed six fish traps and dams on the Barren river.

B. A. Boone, warden for the first district, arrested four men, but obtained no convictions during August. He also destroyed a large fish trap on the Blood river. W. D. Blackwell, of third district, arrested two men at Greenville for dynamiting fish and obtained convictions in each case, while E. F. Wade of Webb's made five arrests and got six convictions for dynamiting fish. Wade also seized forty sticks of dynamite.

H. L. Applegate, of Kosmosdale, arrested six men and obtained five convictions, also seizing four seines, two shotguns, two dogs and one fox.

In the fifth district volunteer warden A. W. Bullock, of Shelbyville, arrested one man and obtained a conviction and then traveled to the eighth district and seized three seines and two fish spears.

In district number seven S. F. Gentry of Stanford, arrested four men and obtained no convictions, while W. H. Grider, of Richmond, a warden for the state at large, obtained one conviction in this district.

In the eighth district where there is no regular warden at the present time, volunteer warden J. R. Robinson, of Maysville, made three arrests and secured as many convictions and W. C. Grierson, of Newport, arrested one man and obtained a conviction. W. E. Pooley, another volunteer, seized four hoop nets.

In district number 9, R. M. Thorp, of Winston, arrested four men and obtained one conviction besides seizing one net. In the tenth district Commodore Pollitt, of Vanceburg, made no arrests, but volunteer wardens, A. J. Brown and R. A. Collins, of Greenup, arrested one man and obtained a conviction.

THE DEATH OF LUCILE LAWSON

(Contributed)
We are thankful that God gave Lucile Lawson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawson, to her parents and the Bobtown neighborhood for twelve years. God does not reckon a life by years as we do, but by the love that has radiated from that life and the deeds of love that have found expression. Love begets love, so this little girl of twelve years had a host of friends who will miss her cheery smile and the touch of affection they had become accustomed to.

She was of the class of one would look at and anticipate the beauty of the blossom. She attracted the attention of the writer at the Bobtown Sunday School by her eagerness to exchange one colporteur book for another then with an expression of appreciation in both voice and face inquired where the next Red Cross meeting would be. She delighted in God's messages in these little books—she led her soul—and thus at this early age she recognized God's call to come and be with Him in the heavenly clime. Her trust in Him was such she could say "good bye" for a time to loved ones. Mother, father, loved ones, that lingering expression, that voice that said so frequently: "I love you," will be more glorious, more beautiful and fuller of meaning in the clear morning of that other country—Paradise.

The memory of her prayers and her consideration of wanting her parents comforted in this trying time, though suffering intensely, ever cheer the hearts of those watching by the bedside. God's finger touched her and she slept while they who loved her watched and wept. It is good to have the memory of such a life in the home, the community, and the school, where she did well both as a student and on the play ground.

We extend sympathy to the loving parents and the seven devoted sisters and brothers and express our gratitude for a home in which was reared this one with six other children of faith, one of whom, Edward, is now preaching the Glad Tidings of Jesus Christ. The funeral services were conducted by Dr. O. O. Green, pastor of the First Baptist church at Richmond, in the Berea cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest beneath a mound of flowers.

Not Changed But Glorified
"Let us be patient, we who mourn, with weeping."
Some vanished face
The Lord has taken but to add more beauty
And a diviner grace,
And we shall find once more, beyond earth's sorrows,
Beyond those skies
In the fair city of sure foundations,
Those heavenly eyes,
With the same welcoming shining through their sweetness
That met us there." —Selected

DESTROYS STILL IN ESTILL COUNTY

Lucien Burnam Leads Party of Prohibition Officers On His First Raid After 'Shiners

In his first raid into the moonshine country since being appointed a Prohibition Enforcement Agent a few weeks ago, Lucien Burnam headed a party of raiders, which destroyed a large still near Irvine, Estill county, Monday night. Mr. Burnam stopped by at his home here en route to headquarters at Louisville.

No operators were found at the still, but there were ample evidences that it was "doing business." Several large tubs of mash were found in the neighborhood of the place. The still was discovered up a ravine on an isolated place. The farm on which it was found is said to be owned by one of Estill's largest landowners. However, there was no suspicion that he has anything to do with the illegal booze manufacture.

Mr. Burnam was accompanied by Agents Unthank and Kinnard on the raid. The tip about the still came in a letter to the prohibition office, signed by a man named "Rucker." The letter stated that a big run of liquor was to be made on the night that the officers appeared, but the operators must have been tipped off that raiders were coming for no trace of them could be found. Rucker, it is said, is entitled to the $10 reward which Chief Prohibition Officer Blackburn, of Louisville, recently offered for information leading to the capture of an illicit still.

Stability for Tobacco

Since 1910 there has not been less than fifty million dollars difference paid for any two successive crops of burley tobacco. Part of this fluctuation has been due to quantity and quality produced and part to consumer demand, but the law of supply and demand can hardly be credited with all the difference.

At any rate, the producers of tobacco in the Burley District are firmly convinced that something besides the law of supply and demand is back of it all, and a tremendous effort is being made to stabilize the market. What upset the equilibrium of the grower and put him to thinking was the fall he had from the golden fruits of war times to the bottom of the pit in 1921; a tumble from real wealth to starvation wage. The crest was reached in 1919, when an acre of good land returned 100 percent to the owner and unheard of hire to the tenant. It was a glorious pinnacle and great was the fall therefrom.

If the price given for the 1918 crop was high, as most of them believed, the result of the following sale was stupendous. Then came the crash. The drop of fifty percent in selling price made a difference to the producers of Kentucky of one hundred and seven million dollars, according to the Wall Street Journal, July 1921.

Just now the possibility of a further drop of thirty to fifty percent from the 1920 price, as happened in the Carolinas, stares him in the face with a wolfish grin. Should the 1921 crop sell fifty percent below the 1920 crop, as seems probable under the old order of things, it seems financial ruin to half the growers of the district.

Whether the unprecedented amount of money paid for the 1919 crop was by way of gift to avoid excess profit tax; meant as encouragement; to offer an excuse for further retail advance or was the real value of that particular crop is of little importance at this time. Certainly it could have been bought for less.

The result of that gift was tragic. Some of the riches was saved but most of it was squandered. It caused fictitious land values, unwarranted investment in new barns and hazardous increase in acreage. It forced tremendous wages in the field and stripping room the following year so that the drop of fifty percent in selling price was doubly severe.

Now, the Burley Tobacco Growers' Marketing Association is going to put a stop to it. Besides steady the producer's market to a great extent a new and higher price level will be reached and maintained. Besides that, the World War brought about an increased consumption of burley tobacco that is even now marching around the globe. There are new markets beckoning that will be sought after and found.

Throughout the state of Kentucky bankers, merchants and editors, realizing that the golden opportunity for the burley tobacco grower and the community, is at hand, have joined in this most important movement to better the condition of the entire population.

Will Madison county hold back against this forward movement by neglecting to sign the contract of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Marketing Association?

Boston and Pittsburgh divided a double-header in Pittsburgh Monday.

A total of 6,949,056 pounds of tobacco has been signed up in Bourbon county.

Lexington In October

(Jonathan Brooks in Colliers)
"Lexington in October rolls into a simple two weeks' festival all the wholesome sentiment of an alumni reception, a G. A. R. encampment, Old Home Week, and a Democratic love feast. To this it adds a dash of betting spirit and liberal quantities of the best racing of the year for trotting and pacing horses. The result is the annual windup of the Grand Circuit, an event toward which your true horseman points his course from Sedalia in spring through Galesburg, Springfield, North Randall, Hartford, and as many other racing centers as he can reach with some chance of winning. No Turk with his eyes and nose toward Mecca, no stanch party worker saving to go to the national convention, no golf bug, even, looking forward to Saturday afternoon, is more devout than the orthodox horseman trekking to Lexington. For Lexington is the alpha and omega and all the rest of the Greek letter fraternity alphabet, of the world of horses and horsemanship. It is to Lexington they come in triumph; disaster is retrieved and clear records are ruined, new champions made and old ones dethroned in these last two weeks before horsemen and horses go home to winter quarters. The Walnut Hall, The Kentucky Futurity, the Transylvania—these and other great stakes are offered for the making or breaking of careers for man and beast." (All this at Lexington Oct. 3 to 15).

LOUISVILLE'S TOURIST CAMP A SUCCESS

(By Associated Press)

Louisville, Sept. 13—Louisville's public spirited tourist camp—the first in this section of the country, is an unqualified success, according to Harry Evans, secretary of the Board of Park Commissioners. The park thrown open late last year, this season already has provided camping facilities for several hundred automobile parties.

Located in Cherokee park, the camp has room for 300 automobiles and has been equipped with two stone stoves, fuel, electric lights, water, an open air dining room, toilets and lavatories and is near tennis courts, a golf course and baseball diamonds. All privileges of the park are free to tourists who are permitted to remain for two weeks if they desire.

Upon arrival at the camp, an especially picked park guard welcomes the campers to the city and gives them to understand the use of the park is open to them, and thus, Mr. Evans says, gives the southbound tourist a friendly greeting at the gateway of the south and the northbound tourist a cheery goodbye with an invitation to return.

Plans of the commissioners, he said, contemplate the erection of a modern comfort station and lounge room within a short time. In this shelter house will be a social hall 15 by 49 feet, adjoining which will be a laundry with electric irons, a kitchen and baths and in the rear a shed where automobiles may be washed.

A survey last year, Mr. Evans said, showed that an average of 300 automobile loads of tourists daily cross the Kentucky and Indiana bridge during the height of the tourist season. Heretofore, he said, these parties either camped on the Indiana side and then moved south, or sought camping facilities at other points than Louisville along their route.

Without exception, Mr. Evans said, the tourists that have used the camp have expressed themselves as highly pleased with the camp, its natural beauty adding much to the pleasure of camping there, they say.

Veteran of Civil War Still Hale and Hearty

GEORGE D. SHAW, Springfield, Mass.

"To say I feel twenty-five years younger, twenty-five years healthier and twenty-five years stronger expresses what Tanlac has done for me better than any other way I can put it," said Geo. D. Shaw, veteran of the Civil War who now lives at 321 Walnut st., Springfield, Mass.

"I am now seventy-eight years old and I don't hesitate to say I have never known a medicine to equal Tanlac. For fifteen years I was subject to attacks of indigestion that were so bad at times I would have to lay up for a week or two. For a long time I lived on crackers and milk alone as nothing else agreed with me. "When I started on Tanlac I weighed only one hundred and seventeen pounds and my days were thought to be numbered."

I've been so wonderfully built up, I now weigh one hundred and forty-four pounds and my stomach is as sound as a dollar. In fact, I believe I could eat the old army rations again without it hurting me in the least.

"I never miss a chance of saying a good word for Tanlac and I would like to urge the boys of the Sixties, who are not feeling right to give it a trial, for I am sure it would put them in line again just as it has me. For a man of my age to have no physical ailment, to be well and strong and enjoy life as he did twenty-five years ago, is certainly something to be thankful for and there is nothing too good I can say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Richmond by Stockton and Son, and leading druggists.

D. A. R. Meeting

The first meeting of the Boonesboro Chapter of the D. A. R. for the years 1921 and 1922 was held Monday with Mrs. George W. Phelps, than whom no one extends more delightful hospitality. The 17th of September being Constitution Day, after the formal opening of the meeting by the chaplain, the regent Mrs. Caperton, had the American creed recited in unison. She then gave a short resume of the work of this and neighboring chapters, during the summer months and in her most happy style welcomed little Miss Douglas McCown as a future daughter of the chapter since her mother, two grandmothers and a great-grandmother are already members.

The date for the picnic at Boonesboro was decided on as Tuesday, Sept. 20th. It is hoped that every member who possibly can will be there by noon of that date. The committee in charge of refreshments are Mrs. C. F. Chenault, chairman; Mrs. Bosley and Miss Bessie Miller.

The state convention meets this year in Frankfort in October and the following delegates and alternates were appointed: Mrs. Caperton, Mrs. Lewis Neale, Mrs. C. D. Chenault, Mrs. Greenleaf, Mrs. Chas. Jett, Mrs. Homer W. Carpenter, Mrs. George W. Phelps, Mrs. Bosley and Mrs. J. J. Neale. A nominating committee composed of Mrs. Lewis Neale, Miss Anne DeJarnett and Miss Willie Kennedy was asked to choose someone to fill the place of regent, vice regent and treasurer, and to report those selected at the October meeting.

It was decided that the base of the Boonesboro monument should in the future be reserved strictly for the names of ancestors who were at Boonesboro, or future members of the chapter.

The programme, each number of which was entertainingly given follows: Magazine report—Mrs. Bosley; Sketch of Francis E. Willard—Miss Anne DeJarnett; Sketch of Clara Barton—Mrs. Keith; one of Carrie Nation, prepared by Miss Mary Phelps, was read by Mrs. Caperton, Miss Phelps being absent; Mrs. Jennings spoke charmingly of the work of the two chapters of D. A. R. in Jacksonville, and the programme closed with a talk by Mrs. Phelps on the John Wilkes Booth monument and the movement on foot to have it demolished.

After a most enjoyable social hour the chapter adjourned to meet in October with Mrs. Alice Tribble and Miss Mattie Tribble.

Mrs. Charles Spencer, of Lexington, was the recent guest of her sister, Mrs. W. E. Luxon, Jr.

Miss Marie Langford has returned to Shelbyville to continue her school work at Science Hill.

Began Career With Spear

Many leading men have had unusual beginnings before they attained their lofty heights of fame, but probably none was more humble than that of Donald Cameron, who will be seen with Billie Burke in "The Education of Elizabeth" at the local theatres Friday. Mr. Cameron, fresh from dramatic school, considered himself fortunate when he was given a spear to carry in Margaret Anglin's Shakespeare repertoire Company. That he had an alert mind was attested by the fact that a year and a half later he was chosen to play Miss Anglin's lead in "Lady Windermere's Fan" when it went on the road.

WILLIAM R. MAHONE CROSSES THE RIVER

The death of Mr. William R. Mahone at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. R. C. White, early Wednesday morning, marks the passing of one of Richmond's best known citizens. Mr. Mahone was born in Lexington on June 24th, 1851, but at an early age moved to Madison county. He married Miss Mattie Cole, daughter of John G. and Hannah White Cole, of the Foxtown neighborhood. In May, 1890, the wife and mother passed to her reward, leaving four daughters, all of whom survive the father. They are Mrs. R. C. White and Miss Mary Mahone, of this city, Mrs. William Eaton, of Bowling Green, and Mrs. G. D. Williams, of Lexington.

Mr. Mahone had been in failing health for more than two years, suffering with a complication of diseases, and for the past three months was confined to his bed. He was a patient sufferer, a devoted father to the daughters who so faithfully ministered to him throughout his illness, and a man who expressed his faith in God and his willingness to go when the end came quietly and peacefully this morning.

He was a member of the First Christian church, and all through his younger manhood, his beautiful clear tenor voice was an acquisition to his church and to the community in which he lived.

The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon at three o'clock at the grave and will be in charge of Dr. Homer W. a Carpenter and Dr. R. L. Telford. The pall bearers will be Messrs R. C. Stockton, Robert Burnham, John W. Crooke, Waller Bennett, Philip Arbuckle, Charles Williams, and Ed Kinser.

TOBACCO PLANTERS' HOME BURGLARIZED

While Hyman Whitaker and wife were in the tobacco patch between 4 and 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, a thief entered their home and ransacked the place making off with a pair of shoes, a good suit of clothes, a razor and $1.15 in change. The house was torn up and things strewn all over the place. The house is on Mr. H. B. Hanger's farm on the Red House pike. There have been no arrests made but the people suspect a colored boy about 18 years old. He was seen hanging around the place during the day.

Grateful Women

Gratitude and appreciation for health restored by that good old fashioned root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is what prompts so many women from all parts of the country to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass., the letters of praise which we publish from time to time. Women who have always had their health cannot realize what it means to others, many of whom have suffered months and even years, and are now well and happy through the use of this natural restorative, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It

Ras VanWinkle was taken to Winchester or safekeeping from Illinois. He is charged with malicious shooting in this county and skipped a bond of $500 recently.

Thieves obtained about $250 worth of supplies at Ed Miller's store near Winchester Monday night.
